

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

This chapter performed the conclusion of this research and to other parties of people. The summary of all objectives in chapter 1 would be discussed in the conclusion. Then, the recommendation would be given to the people who would receive the benefits in using the product of pocket book there were next relevant researcher, book designer, traders in tourist area, and the participant in the temple.

5.1. Conclusion

The result of the research covered the research question which would be concluded into some parts. There were three result that the researcher would infer. Those were about the traders` need analysis, the designing of pocket book, and the appropriateness of the pocket book for the traders in Plaosan temple. First, the traders need analysis could be gained from the analyzing phase. The result was divided into some aspects, as follow: student`s necessities and interest, lack and difficulties, and need. The traders prefer to have simple book that can help them in learning English easier and could be bring anywhere or handy. Then, the traders lack were about less of vocabularies. Based on the needs analysis, the trades need some book that handy and easy to understood, because they want to rich the new vocabularies to help them in speaking which covered their interest and necessities.

The other result were about the design of pocket book. The researcher has designed the pocket book based on the analyzing phase which covered all the traders need. It was considering some criteria of ESP, characteristic, and level of the student. The design of pocket book had revised, this pocket book got the revision from the evaluation that was gained from the expert`s judgment.

The appropriateness of the pocket book was considering the evaluation by the expert`s judgment. They consisted of some people who have an important role to assess the material. They are the content expert, media expert, and the traders. They have assessed and gave some suggestion to the design of pocket book. They have evaluated the materials and gave good score in the evaluation questionnaire. Thus, the design of Pocket book for the traders was considered as a good pocket book by the given score from the expert.

5.2. Recommendation

Recommendation would be used for the people who has the same relation, the same background knowledge, and the same field related teaching. The research and the pocket book would give benefits to people, such as the traders in Plaosan temple, general traders in Yogyakarta, next relevant researcher, and the book designer.

1. The traders

This pocket book might be useful for the traders, and the traders could use the pocket book as their want, to make them easier in learning English, the materials in the pocket book were appropriate with their needs in their field.

2. The next relevant researcher

This pocket book might be useful for the next researcher who had the same research and the background. This would be used as the references and comparison for the other research and the resemble product.

3. The designer

This pocket book might be useful for the book designer which has the same purpose designed book. They could use it as the references to develop the materials and fulfil the students` need.