Dear Hermayawati,

We have received the following comments from reviewers:

1. I have read through the revised draft and made comments in the attached document. The author must consult a professional English proofreader in writing. Document attached.
2. The author has made corrections to both methodology section and bibliographic references section.

However language is still not used correctly, having syntactic errors.

References need further processing. (for example 2nd ref. or 3rd ref. the journal must be mentioned(Theory into Praticce) etc..

The limitations of this study are not clearly stated.

My recommended changes have been made to some extent. The author has made an effort but more corrections are still needed

Please submit the revised paper by email by 10th June 2020.

Please submit two documents:

1. Clean, final paper
2. Paper with tracked changes

Added information...

The MTs adds 4 more needed courses as its local wisdom so that it offers 14 subjects. Ten subjects are taught as compulsory subjects, that must be taken by the learners, the rest (the 4 others) are treated as extra courses that are not a must to take. 🙏

For figure 2, you said there are 14 subjects. We can see only 10. Please clarify urgently.

Dear Hermayawati,

We are disappointed to tell you that your paper had an incredible number of language issues.

The first editor who was appointed to edit the paper said that it was impossible to edit because he did not understand the context of the study.

And now another editor (who understands the context) has been appointed.

The document will take at least 10 more days to finalise. There are also plenty of issues with the references.

Issues already sent by current editor

For example, for Radha Mohan, Radha is the other name while Mohan was the surname but that was not done correctly.

For Krathwohl, you have included 2 references one for 2002 and 2010, but in fact it's exactly the same work. Furthermore, inside the paper you wrote Krathwohl et al. which is not correct as there is a single author. In this way, there are plenty of other issues which will take more time to be corrected.

This single case study was carried out using LDI procedures by Lecturing the RC-13 conceptually, discussing teachers' problems and implementing assessment using FCPM. This means: Lecturing, Discussing, Implementing procedures. 🙌👉
