

CHAPTER V CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

This chapter discusses the conclusion and recommendation of the research. All the result of the objectives would perform in this chapter. Then, the recommendation would be given to people for references, guiding material and people would receive the advantages of this product, they were the next relevant researcher, book designers and the staff member of social communication office in Yogyakarta.

5.1 Conclusion

The purpose of this research is to design “Let’s Interview: a set of English speaking materials for social communication staff. Based on the research result, the designed materials have appropriateness to be used for the staff members of social communication office in Yogyakarta. It can be seen from the preliminary field testing that conducted. The media strengths considered that it has an interesting design and related and will be used by the users. The weaknesses of the materials need to be deeper and sharper in the materials.

5.2 Recommendation

The media could be a recommendation for those who need inspiration to design their media. It was also recommended for those who are searching for teaching material that has specific purposes for the staff of any kind of office or field. In speciality, the designed material has very specific content in term of religion. The product designed by this research expected to be the main material in a course to improve their speaking skills. The product was made based on the staff member needs, so it expected It also expected can helps them as a starting point to learn speaking skills deeply. The findings of this study could give information, to create improvement on instructional material for English for a specific purposes user. This research expected to be used as a reference to support relevant studies done by the future researcher. Moreover, future researchers can develop the result of this research to be a better design of instructional materials for speaking.