

ABSTRACT

Expression about their sexual orientation is not easy for gay, especially in Indonesia. Indonesia still firm hold of norm and east culture. That reason made writer to did this study. Focus of this study is psychological dynamic of coming out among gay man. This study used qualitative research method with case study approach. File collected method used with observation and interview method. The participant choose by purposive sampling method. Criteria of participants are gay man was coming out, with age about 20-40 years old. Participants of this study used 2 main participants and 2 significant persons. The result of this study found both participants through awareness, exploration, acceptance, and integration phase, but their do not through commitment phase. About type of coming out, first participant (LD) into completely out. LD was coming out to all people, but second participant (DN) into half out, where DN told his sexual orientation just to several people.

Keywords: psychological dynamic, coming out, gay.